3. Seller hereby waives any objection to the transfer of the Transferred Claim to Purchaser on the books and records of the Debtor and the Court, and hereby waives to the fullest extent permitted by law any notice or right to receive notice of a hearing pursuant to Rule 3001(e) of the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, the Bankruptcy Code, applicable local bankruptcy rules or applicable law, and consents to the substitution of Seller by Purchaser for all purposes in the case, including, without limitation, for voting and distribution purposes with respect to the Transferred Claim. Purchaser agrees to file a notice of transfer with the Court pursuant to Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 3001(e) including this Agreement and Evidence of Transfer of Claim within ten (10) business days of the date of this Agreement and Evidence of Transfer of Claim. Seller acknowledges and understands, and hereby stipulates, that an order of the Court may be entered without further notice to Seller transferring to Purchaser the Transferred Claim, recognizing Purchaser as the sole owner and holder of the Transferred Claim, and directing that all payments or distributions of money or property in respect of the Transferred Claim be delivered or made to Purchaser.

4. Purchaser shall be entitled to transfer its rights hereunder without any notice to or the consent of Seller. Seller hereby agrees to indemnify, defend and hold Purchaser, its successors and assigns and its officers, directors, employees, agents and controlling persons harmless from and against any and all losses, claims, damages, costs, expenses and liabilities, including, without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees and expenses, which result from Seller's breach of its representations and warranties made herein.

5. Seller shall accept and hold any payments, distributions or proceeds received by Seller in respect of the Transferred Claim (including in connection with any interim distribution or otherwise) for the account and sole benefit of Purchaser and shall promptly (but in any event no later than five (5) business days of receipt in the case of cash and no later than ten (10) business days of receipt in the case of securities) remit any such payments, distributions or proceeds to Purchaser in the same form received, together with (a) all statements received from Debtor and/or Epiq describing such payment or distribution and (b) any endorsements or documents necessary to transfer such property to Purchaser (including, for the avoidance of doubt, any distributions the Seller receives or has received after the trade date of March 3, 2016, as applicable, including the distributions received by Seller from the Debtor on or around March 31, 2016 and June 16, 2016). The first of these is the fact that the defendant's conduct was not a mere technical violation of the law, but a deliberate and conscious act. The defendant was fully aware of the consequences of his actions and chose to proceed anyway. This is a clear indication of a guilty mind, or mens rea, which is a necessary element of a crime.

The second factor is the defendant's prior record. The defendant has a long history of criminal behavior, including several previous convictions for similar offenses. This history suggests that the defendant is a habitual offender and is likely to re-offend if not properly punished.

The third factor is the harm caused by the defendant's actions. The defendant's conduct resulted in significant financial loss and emotional distress to the victim. This harm is a strong argument for a conviction and a substantial sentence.

The fourth factor is the defendant's attitude towards the law and the victim. The defendant showed no remorse or regret for his actions and instead displayed a sense of entitlement and defiance. This attitude is a clear sign of a lack of empathy and a disregard for the rights of others.

In conclusion, the evidence presented in this case strongly supports a conviction for the defendant. The defendant's conduct was deliberate, he has a prior record, his actions caused significant harm, and he shows no remorse. A conviction and a substantial sentence are warranted.
